

I'm not robot!

â€ Look dear! I got my new watch today! "The wife looks fixed on my wrist" And guess what? It's a quartz clock. "(The wife lifts her eyes to look at the book she is holding in her hand" Quartz "? Are you feeling okay? What's going on? "" This Breitling aerospace is really great! Actually, it operates all functions uniquely through the crown. There are no buttons or pushers like in most multifunction quartz watches." (I looked blank for a few seconds. Then to me again. " Well, the most important, the most important thing is it that you like and are happy with your purchase?" And she went out to continue what she had been doing. Looking at Breitling's aerospace tied to my wrist, I realize that the aesthetic is quite peculiar. I've never liked those brand-name jinets. I find them awful, especially in two-tone models. Fortunately in this, they're quite discreet. Being in brushed titanium, like the rest of the watch and the bracelet, do not draw your attention like many other Breitling watches. The other good thing about titanium is its lightness. This watch is so light! It's a real pleasure on the wrist once the bracelet is a correct size. The watch is also very thin, and the 42 mm large box doesn't look that wide, even on my little wrist. This Breitling aerospace isn't new. I got a good deal in a paperless box with no second-hand paper from around 2007 or 2008. It has many scratches and attacks, but that doesn't matter, as I will probably add some more while using it during my daily activities. There have been many developments in the aerospace model since it first came out in 1985. Asides of dial andSâ per quartz movement updates, in the minute minute function was added some time during the mid 90s, and a backlight function from 2005 onwards. On my version, the dial is astonishingly crisp and well finished. The polished hands and indices really stand out on the mint black surface. The antireflective coating of the glass is one of the most efficient I have ever witnessed. It has a blue tone which turns the whole black dial to blue depending on the angle and light. So you really get two watches for the money: one black dial and another in blue. (10 year old son walks into the room, sees me looking at my watch) eAAWwow dad is that a new watch? It looks awesome!!eAAA eAAA eAAAOh really? Do you like it?eAAA eAAA eAAAYou bet! IteAAAs really cool!eAAA eAAA eAAAHaha well look, it is special, iteAAAs a Breitling Aerospace. If I press on the crown, I can know what time it is just by listeningeAA;AeAAA eAAA (Chiming minute repeater beeps emanate from the watch) eAAWOOOOOOOW! how did you do that?eAAA eAAA eAAAAnd thateAAAs not all. Look again: When I rotate the crown slightly it all lights up. I can read day and date on the bottom digital screen, or running seconds, or a digital clock. And if I turn it more I can navigate through the functions. Check out the top screen: alarm, chronograph, second time zone, and timer.eAAA (sparks fly out of his eyes from excitement) eAADoes the border turn too?AAA eAAA eAAAYes look, the bezel turns and clicks.eAAA (plays around with the bezel, clicking away in awe) eAAAYou know dad, I usually doneAAAt like your watches, but this one is much better than the others.eAAA -(Depressed look on my face as I think about all the cool mechanical watches I own, and how a quartz watch has just stolen my son'eAAAs souleAA(A) eAAAThere is one last secret about this watch that I will show you. Look at the caseback when I turn the watch around. You see this diagram engraved? Its a scale so you can convert measurements: litres, pounds, gallons, kilogramseAA;A WoneAAAt this be perfect for Home-tooth? You still have some to do tonight, (all joy evaporates from their eyes).
